AAC Implementation Strategies for Nurturing Communicative Autonomy and Self-Expression

This virtual course will focus on AAC implementation skills that are critical, yet often missed or misunderstood. Learn how to support every communicator's connection with their important people through heightened understanding of how neurodiversity and physical or medical complexity impacts the development of communication.

What you'll learn:

- Positive outcomes for AAC learners
- Evidence-based strategies for students with neurodiversity/autism and complex bodies/medically-frail
- Printable resources that can be used to guide and enhance collaboration with communication partners of AAC users.
