

Comprehensive Literacy for All

Professional Learning Circle

This monthly professional learning circle series aims to build educators' skills in implementing Comprehensive Literacy for All methods into daily classroom instruction. Grounded in the influential work of Karen Erickson and David Koppenhaver, this series invites educators to examine research, explore strategies, and gain practical tools to support students with diverse needs—including those with extensive support needs and complex communication profiles. Each session will include a focused article or research highlight, collaborative discussions, and actionable strategies to enhance literacy instruction through inclusive and evidence-based practices.
