

Kristin Leslie, MAT, OTR/L, is an educational leader, occupational therapist, and statewide professional development specialist with over 25 years of experience in inclusive education, assistive technology (AT), and Universal Design for Learning (UDL). As Director of the Special Education Technology Center (SETC) at Central Washington University, she leads equity-focused initiatives that expand access to inclusive technology and foster learning environments where all students—especially those with disabilities—can thrive. Kristin designs and delivers practical, high-impact training for educators and families, offering coaching, consultation, and technical assistance grounded in real classroom needs. Whether developing asynchronous courses or mentoring her team, she brings a collaborative spirit and a deep belief in the power of belonging and uplifting family voice. Kristin is known not only for her expertise, but for creating learning spaces that are welcoming, actionable, and grounded in community.
